

Usability Experiment Information Sheet and Consent Form

I am Jack Mabber, a 3rd Year BSc Computing For Games student studying at Falmouth University.

During the experiment that I am conducting, you will be asked to play a number of games of Street Fighter 5 using a variety of different input devices, these will include an Arcade Stick, a PS4 controller and a GameCube controller. You will also be asked to fill out a questionnaire about how you feel about the different input methods. The results of these games and your inputs will be recorded. Throughout the research process will also be recording a couple pieces of personal information such as your gender identity, hand size and name to help support my claims, however all of this information will be protected under the EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) and will be stored securely and deleted as soon as the research has concluded.

You can withdraw from the experiment at any time without consequence.

If you have any questions about the research, please don't hesitate to contact jm192929@falmouth.ac.uk, likewise if you have any concerns or worries about the ethics of this research, please contact the Falmouth University Research & Development Office at research@falmouth.ac.uk.

I have read the information provided and I understand that the play test is being conducted purely for academic research. I acknowledge that participation is voluntary and any data I provide will be treated anonymously, confidentially and will be subject to rigorous data protection. I am also happy for my contributions to appear in scholarly publications on the condition that these contributions are kept anonymous. Therefore I consent to take part.
